CANADIAN PARLIAMENT IS DISSOLVED

MEIGHENS MANIFESTO FIGHTS FREE TRADE POLICIES

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—Parliament is dissolved as from to-day, it was officially announced at 5:40 this afternoon. No election date has been officially set but December 5th is the most talked of date with nominations on November 21st.

OTTAWA, Oct. 4.—Containing the statement that the introduction of the tariff policies of either the Liberals or Progressives would result in the closing down of thousands of industries, and that the propaganda of these parties was responsible to a considerable extent for the industrial unrest and uncertainty of the present time, the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen's election manifesto was issued here late this afternoon, following the official announcement of dissolution of Parliament. Mr. Meighen emphatically urges that the best interests of the Dominion could only be served through containing in effect the present tariff policy and that the fight

CATASTROPHE TO THE GREAT AIRSHIP WAS AN ACCIDENT

HULL, Oct. 4.—The catastrophe to the giant airship ZR-2 over the Humber River in which more than forty persons lost their lives on Aug. 24th last was due to an accident according to the verdict rendered by the Coroner's Jury here to-day. There is no evidence as to the actual cause of the disaster, the verdict says.

In the present election is wholly a fight against free trade. Pointing out that 42 years ago the people of Canada realized the need of a protective tariff to prevent submissive relationship towards the United States and that the study of the past forty years would conclusively show the advance made under protection, the Prime Minister sets forth that any downward revision of the tariff schedules would mean surrender of the advances made as a self-contained aggressive industrial nation. The tariff proposals of Liberals and Progressives are held up as practically the same, both tending towards downward revision and free trade, with consequent greater buying from and less selling to the United States.

Unemployment Conference Opens in Washington

Federal Treasury Must Not Be Called Upon to Relieve Situation

No Dole System for Relief Plans to Find Work for Idle in United States

Most Vicious System Ever Introduced, Says Hoover.

CONFERENCE OPENS.

Co-operation of Capital, Labor and Public Needed, Harding Declares.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—All America must commit itself to the solving of the unemployment problem, President Harding declared today.

Opening the national unemployment conference, the President confidently predicted that the United States will not fail in the task, which he characterized as an "advance drive of peace."

"All America has never failed when committed to a common cause," he said.

After President Harding's address, and a speech by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, the first session of the conference adjourned until 3 p.m. Both Harding and Hoover emphasized that the situation must never be solved by giving of Government alms from the public treasury.

The President made it clear that the Federal treasury must not be called upon to relieve the situation. He insisted that the remedy lies in the co-operation of capital, labor and the public.

"Fundamentally sound, financially strong, industrially unimpaired, commercially consistent, and politically unafraid, there ought to be work for everybody in the United States who chooses to work, and our condition at home, and our place in the world depends on everybody going to work and pursuing it with that patriotism and devotion which make for a happy people," Harding said.

America, he added, is now suffering from a war inheritance which was inevitable and prompt mitigation is imperative.

Co-operative service to the unemployed, and not charity, must be the aim of the conference, Secretary Hoover declared in his brief speech outlining the program in a general way.

VICIOUS SYSTEM.

The "Dole" given unemployed in other countries, "is the most vicious of systems ever introduced into government," Hoover said. "It must not be employed here," he warned, "if the United States is to be saved from pernicious paternalism."

"The Administration expects fine results from the co-operation of manufacturers, employers and public bodies."

"The task of this conference is to mobilize and guide the sense of service. If we initiate the American people will follow. The country is simply waiting for guidance."

Hoover said "there is no question that we are on the economic up-grade. Every sign indicates that we passed the low economic point."

The present degree of unemployment cannot, however, continue, he said, "if our moral and economic system is to survive."

Outlining the general program of the conference, Hoover said its first task is to get the facts about unemployment, as to its volume, distribution and character "because the proposals you make depend on the weight of the problem."

Next, he said, the immediate need

Program of Measures of Relief Proposed by Administration

SHAFT OF OPTIMISM

Shortening of Work Day and Increase in Number Employed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—President Harding has spoken the word and Secretary Hoover has taken hold of the machinery for starting one of the most important re-adjustment efforts of the administration—providing work for the nation's idle and a breath of optimism for the nation's business.

The initial words having been spoken and the organization of the conference completed with Hoover as chairman, it is now possible to set forth the measures for relief contemplated by the administration and to be effected, if possible, by the group of distinguished Americans here, called for this important duty from all walks of business life. Briefly, here is the program:

SHAFT OF OPTIMISM.

1.—Hold open hearings to establish the exact unemployment—as to numbers, classes and locations affected. Labor leaders and the Department of Labor have declared there are six million idle in the country to-day. Independent statistics compiled by the Department of Commerce and other business agencies declare there are less than 3,500,000 without work. Reporting of the higher unemployment figures has slowed down buying and manufacturing and has had a detrimental influence on business all down the line, delegates report. So it was deemed advisable at the outset to correct this misapprehension and inspire a business revival.

No Ordinary Depression But World Conditions Cause Unemployment

Fifteen Locals of Longshoremen Want Work and Withdraw from International

INVERNESS, Oct. 4.—Mr. Lloyd George speaking here to-day on unemployment, touched on the Irish question, declaring that the London Conference, beginning on October 11th, between representatives of the British Government and Sinn Féin, can only succeed if those who enter it make up their minds definitely and resolutely to trust to the common sense of their own people and do not try to reconcile extremists. Mr. Lloyd George referred optimistically to the coming disarmament conference in Washington. "It will constitute one of the outstanding events which will affect human history for centuries," he said. He had hoped to further the Irish question while in the Highlands but through no fault of his own, or of his colleagues, he did not succeed. "At any rate when we enter the conference in London," he said, "we shall do so with what is known as the Inverness Formula, which was signed in this very chamber and dispatched to the representatives of the Irish people." Dealing with unemployment the Prime Minister emphasized that it was not an ordinary trade depression but a world condition, due to the shattering effects upon the world's credit and competition. Nations have had to mortgage their resources and pledge their future he said. The result is that it has led to impoverishment. Traders, investors and working men, and everybody dependent upon them, must be impoverished for years to come. Meantime, he said, it was necessary to look after the needy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Fifteen of the twenty-nine locals of the International Longshoremen's Association to-day voted to withdraw from the organization. The spokesmen for the seceders announce their appeal to Mayor Hylan this forenoon and ask him to open negotiations with steamship interests for them with a view of ending the strike at this port.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS

GENEVA, Oct. 4.—Four non-permanent members of the Council of the League of Nations, Spain, Belgium, China and Brazil will be re-elected to the committee of international organization, it was so decided unanimously to-day.

Immediately strike a shaft of optimism into the present business depression.

2.—Employment bureaus are to be recommended for establishment in all leading cities where unemployment is high. The work of these bureaus will involve the registration by municipalities of all men who desire work and cannot find it. Only local residents—not transients—will be registered.

SHORTER WORK DAY.

4.—To obtain added employment in industries, manufacturers will be urged to adopt emergency measures such as will shorten the work day a given per cent. for those now employed in order to permit of a corresponding percentage of increase in the number of employees. This would entail, perhaps, a reduction of wages, corresponding to the reduced hours, for those now employed, but it would provide against suffering for thousands who are out of work.

These four measures are the ones upon which the conference leaders are depending for the most immediate results. All require co-operation among civic and state authorities, merchants, manufacturers and labor. Their success, once they are launched in definite form, will depend altogether upon the spirit with which communities get behind the ideas, it is pointed out.

In addition the conference will consider how to effect emergency transportation work, increased construction, emergency mining measures and emergency shipping measures.

BASIC OBSTACLES.

Behind these emergency measures are broader plans for more permanent remedies which will be considered during the conference. These will take the conference into the field of freight rate adjustments, modification of building trade regulations to encourage home building and adjustment of admittedly bad conditions in the mining industry, which three elements are regarded by authorities here as the basic obstacles in the path of a business revival.

LATEST.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Reuter cable from Bombay says arrest of All Brothers and other agitators has aroused little excitement outwardly.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Right Hon. Sir Arthur Griffiths, Minister of Agriculture, announces that although Government has abandoned policy of guaranteed prices and control of cultivation they are determined to pursue policy of education and research, as most permanent method of improving agriculture.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Large sums of money may be placed at disposal of German Government for use in payment of reparations by German Industrial Federation, says Berlin despatch to exchange telegraph.

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 5.—John Storey, who became Premier of New South Wales in April 1920, died to-day. He was for many years prominent Labor Leader.

BELFAST, Oct. 5.—In moving adjournment of the Ulster Parliament until December 13, and giving Speaker power to summon it again in case of emergency, Sir James Craig, Premier, said yesterday "this course is somewhat unusual and no one can tell what next few months may bring forth." Referring to the London conference on October 11 Sir James said "if there is no one there to say a word for Ulster, Ulster may come out of this badly indeed."

UNITED MINE WORKERS MAY NOT AGREE TO ARBITRATE

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 4.—"No agreement can now be made binding the United Mine Workers of America to arbitrate any disputes that may arise next spring in wage negotiations with the operators," President J. L. Lewis to-day told the Union's Convention in session here. "Such an answer," he said, "has been given to Government officials who in connection with the Unemployment Conference at Washington are seeking advanced assurances from union leaders and operators with a view of averting the possibility of a nation-wide coal strike."

IRELAND ENJOYS MUCH PROSPERITY

Exports Exceed Imports by Substantial Sum—Boycott of Belfast.

OTTAWA, Sept. 24.—The material prosperity enjoyed by Ireland during the past eight years is emphasized in the forthcoming trade and commerce bulletin by Gordon C. Johnson, Canadian Trade Commissioner in Glasgow. Banking statistics, says Mr. Johnson, show that deposits and cash balances in Irish joint stock banks increased from £62,142,000 in 1913 to £186,440,000 in 1921. Exports from Ireland exceeded her imports in 1919, 1920 and 1921 by 50,000,000 pounds sterling.

The boycott of Belfast by the rest of Ireland still continues, says the commissioner in spite of the truce, although not in such drastic form. A large number of Belfast distributing houses have been badly hit, but the manufacturers in the linen, shipbuilding and engineering industries, whose trade is with the whole world, have not suffered, their present depression being due to world conditions. An early improvement in the linen industry is looked for, however.

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The London Times this morning discusses despatch from Paris correspondent which asserts French publicists have proposed that France should, in Washington conference, tender her support to the United States over Pacific problems in return for United States support in European problems. The Times thinks proposal perhaps even more pernicious tendency than that which it says is shown in some quarters of France to treat conference as of little consequence to Frenchmen.

True Worth

The Reward of Those Who Play Square

CHAPTER IV.

In Love With A Face.

Cyril Burne started slightly and wheeled his chair aside, then got up and began pacing the room with quick, restless steps.

Jack Wesley mixed a couple of drinks with deliberate precision. "Walk up, walk up!" he murmured. "The Hon is now about to be fed—or rather drunk. I wonder how much Mrs. Brown, the landlady, will charge for the carpet; perhaps if you'd take a 'lap' round the other side of the table—"

Thus, adjured, Cyril stopped short, and taking up his glass, seated himself on the table.

"That's better," remarked Jack Wesley, dropping into the chair; "now we can talk—that is, if you can tear your mind away from the romantic episode of the mysterious voice on the terrace; and I should like to ask you, my dear Cyril, what you intend to do?"

Cyril flashed his dark eyes on him, still rather absently.

"What I intend to do?"

"Exactly," said Jack, puffing at his pipe and nursing his knee, a favorite trick of his. "When a week ago you came into—burst into would be the more exact expression—my chambers with the proposal that I should accompany you on a trip to Santeigh, County Berks, you asserted, in response to my question 'Why?' that you wanted to make some sketches for the new picture which is one day to startle the artistic world, and blazon your name on the bead roll of Fame. You also remarked that it would be a capital chance for my getting a few rustic ideas for a poem, a novel, or a play. Is not that so?"

Cyril nodded with a half-smile. "In a weak moment, a very weak moment, I consented. I may remark that I always do consent to your proposals, and that I never fail to rue my weakness. This instance is no exception to the general rule. We have been in this secluded spot for two whole days. Your sketches are represented by that insane outline of a tree," he pointed his pipe at a canvas on an easel, "and my rustic ideas have not yet suggested themselves. 'Instead of which,' as the magistrate observed, we have perpetrated a sample of mad trespassing which ought to have landed us in the village quod, or obtained for us a charge of shot or a revolver bullet apiece. I like adventures—for other persons; as for me, writing about 'em is good enough; and I beg to state that I politely, but emphatically, refuse to accompany you in any further exploit, whether it take the shape of prowling like burglars at midnight about a noble mansion, or breaking about a church. And I would also like to ask, when are you going to return to town?"

Cyril Burne laughed slowly again. "Jack, if you'd been born dumb you'd have been as nearly perfect as a man could be," he said.

"Thanks for your kind appreciation, but allow me to remark that that is not an answer to my question. Please—I ask it as a special favor—don't begin to prance up and down again!" For Cyril had got off the table, and threatened to resume his restless pacing. He desisted, however, and went and leaned up against the mantleshaft, and looked down at the spectacled face with a curious expression, half-sad, half-wistful.

"Jack," he said, and there was a certain gravity in his deep, musical voice, "you are the only friend I have in the world, and sometimes I am sorely tempted to tell you, to confide—"

"He stopped, and Jack Wesley regarded him seriously. "Never give way to temptation, Cyril," he said, succinctly.

"And yet I have vowed to keep my secret."

"The fool makes a vow, the wise man keeps it," murmured Jack.

"Did it ever occur to you, Jack, that though you and I have been close friends for nearly a twelvemonth, you know as little about me as you did the night we met. You remember? The night you found me sauntering over Waterloo Bridge and looking at the water?"

"Yes, I remember," assented Wesley.

"I was without a penny, with the key to the street," his voice softened, and he leaned forward, and laid his hand on the other man's shoulder.

"And generally miserable. Having been in the same condition myself, I know the signs and felt a fellow-feeling."

"You stopped and spoke," resumed Cyril, his voice so full of music that it stirred the heart of the listener, "and insisted upon my coming home with you and sharing your supper. You asked no questions, and therefore got no fibs. And you have asked none from that hour to this."

"What proves that I have not inherited my Mother Eve's crowning fault—curiosity," put in Jack under his breath.

"You took me on trust, helped me to gain my living—were in short, that rarest of all rare things, a friend, a true friend in need; and, as a return for all your kindness, I refuse to confide in you!"

There was silence for a moment, then Jack Wesley looked up.

"Why should you confide in me?" he said. "Keep your secret, whatever it may be, my dear Cyril. I am quite content with my ignorance concerning it. A man's a poor kind of friend who wants to pry into his chum's private affairs. And now, will you come back to London to-morrow?"

Cyril Burne thrust his hands in his pockets, and frowned at the carpet.

"No," he said, not ill-naturedly, but with firm emphasis, "Jack, I cannot." Jack Wesley knocked the ashes from his pipe and regarded it intently before saying anything further; then he said:

"Then I must go alone. All play and no work will make Jack a hungry boy. You can paint down here as well—better than in town; I must be near my books. Yes, I'll return; but—"

He paused, and, getting up, regarded the handsome, pensive face with a shrewd smile. "You didn't see the lady—old or young—who quoted Shakespeare on the terrace to-night, Cyril?"

Cyril Burne's face reddened under its tan, but he raised his eyes, and met his friend's gaze steadily.

"No," he said. "I know what you mean, and I plead guilty. Jack, I'll tell you what keeps me here. You will laugh—I can't help it. You'll think me mad, even if you don't say so; perhaps I am. Well, then, this afternoon when I left you for a stroll I sauntered towards the court gates to get a view of the house. As I was standing there a carriage came up. It stopped while the lodge-keeper was opening the gates, and I saw an old man and a girl inside. She looked out for a moment. I only caught a glimpse of her face, but—he paused and looked straight before him, his eyes glowing with a look which Jack Wesley had never observed in them before—"I see her now! Jack, it was the most beautiful face I have ever seen. I stood rooted to the spot. She did not see me, and her eyes—"

He paused again. "Do you know that picture in the left-hand corner of the large room of the National Gallery, Jack?"

Jack Wesley nodded. He was not smiling now.

"They were like the girl's in the

He stopped again. "If I were to talk for a month I should give you no idea of the face that haunts me," he went on in a low voice; "of its sweetness, its purity, its nameless charm! The carriage went on, and I—just woke!"

"And found yourself in love with a face," said Jack Wesley.

He turned, as if he almost defied ridicule.

"Yes, I fell in love with a face! Why don't you laugh?"

"I was wondering whether you'd mind my crying," retorted Jack Wesley, in a low voice; "for, believe me, my dear fellow, love is more of a crying than a laughing matter. Did you discover who she was?"

"No. I asked the lodge-keeper, and he could not tell me. I came home, and the face hovered before me." His head dropped, so that his eyes were hidden.

"And it was on the bare chance of getting a second glimpse of the face that you ventured on the burglarious expedition to the court to-night?"

THIS RETORT SARCASTIC

A LADY entered a train and took a seat in front of a newly-married couple. She was scarcely seated before they began making remarks about her. Her last year's hat and cloak were fully criticised, with more or less giggling on the bride's part, and there is no telling what might have come next if the lady had not put a sudden stop to the conversation by a bit of strategy. She turned her head, noticed that the bride was considerably older than the groom, and in the sweetest of tones said, "Madam, will you please ask your son to close the window behind you?"

TO PRESIDENTS AND ADVERTISING MANAGERS

As an Advertising Medium the ADVOCATE is justly proud of its results.

No Paper covers the Island of Newfoundland more generally. Let us help each other and Newfoundland by Cooperation, and lead the way to Better Business.

Ask for our Rates.

Newfoundland looks to you for business leadership. Are you going to give us brave, courageous, aggressive, confident leadership in the months to come?

You have reached your present positions at the head of Big Business because of superior organizing and managerial ability—very largely because you can see further ahead, think further ahead and plan for the future better than others.

Newfoundland Looks for Signs

The public and the trade are looking to you for some signs of your attitude and of your plans for the future.

The surest and most positive sign you can give that you believe in the future prosperity of your country, that you have confidence in your own business, that you have faith in yourself, is by advertising.

A Sign of Confidence

Advertising is an evidence of confidence.

It is visible proof of courage.

It indicates faith in the future.

It shows the public and the trade that you are not lying down, but are boldly, bravely, strongly in the fight for better business.

A Great Force

Advertising isn't a cure-all.

But it is a great force that can be intelligently and profitably used to help business along the road to better times.

Advertising is the most economical means for selling to the masses.

Advertising creates a preference for one article over an unadvertised competitor.

It multiplies the value of a trade-name or trade-mark.

It is the greatest bulwark of good-will.

It helps stabilize the market.

It reduces the cost of selling. In normal times selling costs go down in proportion to the increasing reputation of the goods. A well-known product is always sold more easily and in less time, and the cost at less cost, than a little-known article.

For Men of Courage

Advertising is for men of courage and vision—for men who show the way when others mark time—for men of aggressive action.

We have shown our faith in the future and in advertising, and have proven our courage, by the persistent and aggressive publicity campaign we have been carrying on for ourselves—of which this advertisement is a sample.

Now is the time to show Leadership—to lead the way to better business.

Commercial Reconstruction

Editor The Advocate,

Dear Sir,—I stand for State Schools, and have always stood for them, viz: all denominations unite in one system—all unite. "Give all a chance to unite first!" This I advocated in the Synod; also through the press on several occasions. The first points made have been realized, viz, a Department of Education and a State Normal School. The third was a State Technical Commercial College. Surely the time is ripe now to consider this when every other country is uniting and advancing towards commercial reconstruction. Already in Germany large sums of money have been voted since the war towards Schools of Commerce; and efforts are being made to advance Commercial Education generally, for the further promotion of the work of the University of Commerce in Leipzig. Similar progress is being made in England and Canada, only recently; and in the United States. What is Newfoundland's next step in this direction?

The next step needed in Commercial Education in Newfoundland is, in my opinion, an effort to establish a United Technical College of Commerce in St. John's, inter-denominational and self-supporting, and if this cannot be accomplished, then a plebiscite on the question of State Schools, without exception for progress in this, the greatest business and duty of the country. Education, upon which the stability of the State depends.

A public Commercial College of Commerce with its united grant, building, equipment, staff and plan of work, on the lines of the ideals of Commercial Education in Secondary Schools in England, the United States and Canada, is surely the desideratum for accomplishment. Such an institution would be a great gain to Newfoundland even as the High Schools and Colleges of Commerce in Canada and the United States are a benefit in helping to make those countries progressive. The whole country would reap the reward and every denomination and every individual with it.

The problem of such a school, its type of organization, purpose, curriculum, definiteness of aim, relation to the business community; its work in the seventh, eighth and ninth years of school life, and tenth and eleventh years of High School life, doing the "first years" work of College or University grade at least, will all need detailed consideration by a joint inter-denominational committee, representative of business and industry as well.

The adaptation of American Business Colleges' curricula to local needs; and care regarding courses, subjects, syllabus, etc., will take considerable time to plan. Languages, Science, Trade Finance, Marketing, Civics, Economics etc., will deserve a leading place in this curriculum for a good development in Citizenship.

The ordinary commercial studies should also receive a place, particularly lessons in Business Arithmetic and Book-Keeping, combined; Elementary and Advanced Book-Keeping and Accounts; Auditing; Office Practice, Typewriting and Shorthand; Business Organization; Advertising, Salesmanship; Commercial Law; Penmanship, Spelling and Business Correspondence; Public Speaking and Debating; Commercial Arithmetic and Mensuration; Navigation, Dressmaking, (for girls), Social Education, Games and Drill, Social Ethics, Vocational Work as Manual Training Engineering, etc. Even then conclusions as to permanent records and estimation of pupils for positions should be based on reliability, courtesy, industry, neatness, punctuality.

The Woes of Mrs. Newlywed

"The yolk of eggs always drip into the whites when I try to separate them," complained Mrs. Newlywed. "What can I do?"

"The yolk can easily be removed if you dip a clean cloth into warm water and wring it dry. Touch the yolk of the egg with a point of the cloth and it will cling to it," advised Mrs. Neighbor.

Boys and Girls

Dainty, fastidious care of the person should be taught any young person. Cleanliness, and more than cleanliness, exquisite self grooming should become such a habit from youth that it will last throughout life. This habit of cleanliness should be taught before habits of carelessness have had time to assert themselves.

There is a born daintiness about little girls that makes them take to good grooming naturally. The boy on the other hand, avoids good grooming as much as possible. Water, except for drinking and swimming purposes is the bane of his life. A washcloth he abhors, soap is a nuisance and a tooth brush is an unnecessary instrument.

There is no use trying to teach the average boy to be fastidious about his person, but they should all be taught the importance of cleanliness of a fresh clear skin, well brushed hair and teeth and a critical sense of what a clean collar is. These habits, established in childhood, are even more important for a boy than for a girl.

Physical cheerfulness, loyalty to the truth, the school, and the wholesome ideals of life, as well as on technical training.

The whole plan of work should have in view the development of the seven-fold gift of true Education, viz:—

Physical, moral, aesthetic, intellectual, social, vocational, and the Spiritual that includes them all; teaching men and women to live right, on the square of health, truth beauty and goodness—the moral, physical, intellectual and emotional standard—with the Spiritual encircling each and all; thus helping to mould substantially a Commercial world worth having, and an ideal of life worth living, for every devoted student of trade and commerce in dear old Newfoundland.

How much longer must we wait before someone moves to action in convincing the people that Newfoundland has so much to gain by such a united College of Commerce? Why fight one another or oppose it thus delaying progress and "biting the nose to spite the face." Delay will simply "kill the goose that can lay the golden egg."

I would suggest that the Superintendents of Education, the Directors of the Colleges and the Board of Education in the city unite now when co-operation or unity is possible, and establish an efficient State Technical and Commercial College for Newfoundland.

Yours faithfully,

P. G. BUTLER, B.C.S.

BUSINESS FOR WORKERS

London.—Arthur J. Falls, former Mayor of Bermondsey, who recently turned his entire bottle business over to his employees, to run for their own benefit, may decide to take it back. The employees have divided into factions and are about ready to admit they are incapable of conducting it.

Proper Manners

"Is it correct to have a small holder of toothpicks on the dining table," asked Mrs. Youngbride.

"Yes, it is not customary, as it is not considered good form to use a tooth-pick in the presence of others," said her mother-in-law.

Health Hints

Great care should be taken of the ears, says Nurse. The middle part of our hearing machines are of greater importance than either end both for the reason that at least three quarters of the cases are preventable. The thickening and inflammation of the drum of the ear and the tiny bone behind it, not unlike the diaphragm and needle of the telephone are the main causes of the deafness. This inflammation almost never starts in the ear itself. The one weak spot which nature left in the ear is the tube which connects with the throat, although this is necessary for various reasons of health. In disease it becomes a perfect sewer and feed pipe of pestilence. The one thing that often ruins the ear is its nearness to the throat and the fact that the tube connects them.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1921

A New Magazine

We acknowledge and welcome a new Magazine called "The Newfoundland Agricultural Magazine," a first copy of which has been kindly sent us by the editor, Mr. F. F. Jardine of Bell Island, C.B. What is very striking at first glance is that in its 16 pages there are no advertisements. Whether Mr. Jardine intends to continue in this way we know not, but it is not likely that a journal of this kind, and with such a worthy object, will be allowed to go to press again without such necessary aids to revenue.

The journal will be published quarterly, the terms of subscription being 60 cents per year, single copies 20 cents.

The present time should be teaching us valuable lessons in the economy of agricultural development. When so many millions throughout the world are nigh starvation today, we should be grateful for a kindly Providence that has placed so many of our people in open spaces which can be tilled and so easily made to produce abundantly. As one man has expressed himself to us: "It will take something pretty bad to starve me while I have two hands to work," and it does seem as if the extra bit of labour put on the soil this year will mean all the difference between misery and comfort to many. We commend the object of the Nfld. Agricultural Magazine and wish it all sorts of success.

The General Manager

The Daily News looks upon the return of Mr. Morgan as General Manager of the Reid Nfld. Railway, almost with suspicion, and harks back to the wording of his resignation a few weeks ago, to try and frighten its readers into imagining some dreadful result from Mr. Morgan's return.

As a matter of fact, the majority of people are heartily glad that Mr. Morgan is coming back. Under the recent Railway Act, a General Manager was to be appointed in consideration of the liability which the Govt. assumed for the current year's operations, and the people are therefore very much interested in having a man who comes so well recommended as Mr. Morgan.

The "extraordinary position" spoken of by the News arose when Mr. Morgan resigned. His return brings back the situation as it was when he arrived first. As far as we know there are no new "terms or purposes" in connection with Mr. Morgan's return. What is needed now is the utmost cooperation between all concerned in running the Railway efficiently, economically, and in establishing relations between the travelling public, the shippers of freight and the Railway that will make for bigger and better business.

Below the Belt

We have the greatest admiration for Dr. Grenfell and his work on the Labrador. He has, perhaps, done much more than would have been done by the various Governments if he had not taken up the unselfish and Christian work on that section of our coast. We know too much of the great value of his work to the fishermen to criticise in any way the many ways in which his hospitals and institutions have helped suffering, and alleviated pain.

But we do object strongly to any propaganda which, for the purpose of raising funds, makes out Newfoundland as a starving, uncivilized and destitute country, and crying out for assistance. The article which the Prime Minister showed us appeared in a Californian paper, and Twillingate particularly was featured as being most helpless and begging for food. There was no attempt to differentiate between Labrador and Newfoundland, and the appalling effect such an article must have on our status is something that can only be imagined.

We think the time has come when these matters should be straightened out.

If Dr. Grenfell himself is not responsible for these articles, let his over-zealous workers in the U. S. A. be informed as to the effect of their propaganda on the credit of Newfoundland and be asked to modify the extravagant stories of conditions here. We understand that steps will be taken to deal with the situation.

That Rail Order

With regard to the rumours that the Sydney Steel Mills have received a large order for rails which obviate the necessity for closing down, it is to be hoped that the news is true and that it may mean increased work at Bell Island and at Sydney. Newfoundland is very much interested in this work and it is rather more than likely that the view of the Canadian politicians that an order for 100,000 tons of rails will be given at once has something of truth in it, especially as the Canadian elections are now on.

The following extract is taken from the Montreal Star of recent date:

"Hon. J. A. Stewart, Minister of Railways, has just returned from Montreal, where, with the Deputy Minister, he has spent a couple of days in conference with the chief executives of the Grand Trunk and Canadian National Railways. The unemployment situation in its relation to the National Railways has been thoroughly canvassed, as also was the possibility of the railways so arranging their repair work and placing new orders as to obviate as far as possible serious unemployment during the winter. Under normal conditions, the practice is to place orders for steel rails and accessories in the early spring, but in view of the existing situation, the department announces that the Government will authorise the Canadian National and Grand Trunk to place their orders in the immediate future."

"In addition to the repair work now being done in railway shops, it is the intention of the Government to authorise the management to place orders for rebuilding and repair of freight equipment wherever it is feasible, providing the Department of Labor, upon investigation, believes the local conditions may be thereby relieved."

War Memorials

The Knights of Columbus have issued invitations for the formal opening of the War Memorial School which their efforts have erected on October 12th. This is, without question, one of the outstanding War Memorials erected here, and one which best carries out the idea of a memorial which shall "serve" as well as "commemorate." With the heart-breaking dearth of schools in this city, the act of the Knights might well be emulated. We hope that the idea of a Memorial in the shape of a Normal School has not been abandoned. The Normal School has been born in modest surroundings and is doing good work, and no money could be better spent than in erecting a dignified War Memorial Normal School with tablets suitably inscribed with the records of the Navy and of the Army.

Improving the Herring Pack

"As many complaints regarding inferior packages, and as competition from other sources has developed so keenly, all concerned will need to be extremely careful and make every effort in order to retain our markets for herring."

Thus concludes a circular just issued by the Dept. of Marine and Fisheries to all packers of our herring for shipment abroad. Advice and directions are given as to the quality of packages and this is as much for the benefit of individual shippers as it is for the benefit of the herring industry itself. The circular further advises as follows:

"If herring are packed in packages other than those prescribed, they are liable to be condemned by an Inspector at a loss to the packer, and any Scotch barrels which have had condemned herring dumped out of them must not be used again."

"The Department also advises all packers not to pack Norwegian style without having them sold before packing. It is far better to have the herring split, than to pack Norwegian style and have no sale for them."

"This Department cannot impress upon all curers and packers too strongly the necessity to take this advice, and give it their strictest attention."

The Minister of Fisheries should be given every encouragement and assistance in his efforts to bring the herring fishery up to the highest possible standard. The department has three men in Inspectors Coyell, McFarlane and Howlett who know the herring business from alpha to omega and they are going into this herring improvement business in real earnest. The herring fishery, as an industry, has come second to the codfishery and everything must be done to still further improve it.

No Dole System

for the coming winter must be coped with. Then restoration of commerce and employment generally to normal must be assisted. Preventive measures against recurrence of "acute reactions" which result in unemployment, is also a vital part of the work, Hoover said.

NO PANACEAS.
"I do not assume there are any panaceas," he went on. "But we can mobilize the country's intelligence, and I am sure there are practical remedies that can be brought out of this conference. We must find remedies that do not come within the range of charity. Also, our work lies very largely outside the scope of legislation. There must be no demand on the public treasury."

Hoover said the quickest way to get results would be to organize at once into committees and take up the various phases of the problem in them, rather than in a general discussion. In accordance with a resolution passed by the conferees, Hoover named the following permanent committee to prepare the permanent committees, select members and assign to them various phases of the unemployment problem:

James Couzens, millionaire mayor of Detroit; Ida M. Tarbell, New York; Thomas V. O'Connor, president of the Longshoremen's Union, Buffalo; Charles M. Schwab, New York; C. H. Markham, Chicago, president of the Illinois Central Railroad; Matthew Woll, Chicago, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor; Samuel McCune Lindsay, New York; professor of social legislation, Columbia University; Julius H. Barnes, Duluth, Minn.; Clarence Mott Wooley, Detroit, president of the American Radiator Company; Harry S. Robinson, Los Angeles, former member of the United States Shipping Board.

Simpkins: "Oh, I say, you must come home with me and see my twins."
Tompkins: "Certainly I will. What are you going to call them?"
Simpkins: "Peter and Repeater."
Tompkins: "That's good! But supposing they had been girls?"
Simpkins: "Then I should have called them Kate and Duplicate."

CATASTROPHE OF LOW PRICES CAUSED BY CONSIGNMENT RING

The Advocate's assertion that six million dollars will be lost to the fishermen on this season's "catch" owing to the lifting of the regulations has not been contradicted, nor can it be successfully contradicted.

A loss of four dollars on a quintal at any time would be a serious matter, but at this particular period it is a staggering one, and the Advocate makes no wonder that a cry of indignation is heard from one end of the country to another. The interests of the fishermen have been sacrificed by the removal of the regulations and day after day the sacrifice becomes more appalling as conditions worsen under the curse inflicted on the country by a ring of merchants on Water Street in league with Hawes and others whose consignment schemes threaten the economic life of the country.

Under the present curse the fishermen are now relegated to the position of serfs, who must take whatever the Ring chooses to give them for their fish. That is the true position, and the Advocate intends to expose this dastardly plot as it materialises from day to day; and when the whole plot is exposed every intelligent fisherman will know the meaning of Mr. Coaker's struggle, on their behalf against the individuals who brought about the destruction of the fish regulations.

Never in the history of this country did a public man battle more sincerely, more honestly and persistently than did Mr. Coaker for the true interests of the country. Than he, no more Newfoundlanders know more about the fish business locally and foreign, and no one as clearly foresaw the fate that awaited the fishermen if the opponents of the regulations succeeded in destroying them and substituting for the regulations the throat-grip of the Consignment Ring.

After his return from the foreign markets last year, Mr. Coaker published in the Advocate his opinions of the consignment program contemplated by Mr. Hawes in Greece as well as in Spain; and he (Mr. Coaker) foretold exactly the state of affairs that could result to the fishermen from the consignment business, which the regulations would have prevented. Take the Liverpool market at the present time. When the season opened a fair price was obtainable in Liverpool. If the regulations were operating and if the exporters were working harmoniously together, the original price for the first shipments to Liverpool would be maintained throughout the whole season, because shipments would be controlled and consignment would be prohibited. It would be then possible to give the fishermen a firm price for Labrador fish whether fish was shipped in September, October, November or December.

Today, however, the Liverpool market is killed, because of unrestricted shipments and consignments. The prices are rapidly falling there and, as a consequence, fishermen are sacrificed for the lack of business commonsense on the part of exporters and for the treacherous conduct of political individuals of the type of A. B. Morine and others, who, unconsciously or otherwise, abetted the plot to bleed Newfoundland and fill the coffers of foreign agencies with gold robbed from the fishermen.

In Heaven's name, are the fishermen to stand indefinitely for such maltreatment and calumny? Now that some of them are disillusioned of the hypocrisy of well-known political wretches, are they, without protest, to be victimized in this way?

Mr. Coaker bore their burdens last year. Only Coaker could have done it and Coaker could scarcely do it. Not one man out of a thousand would have borne the strain devolving on Mr. Coaker, who fought to the last ditch to sustain the regulations and prevent the catastrophe which is now upon the fishermen.

Moreover, Coaker, with the weapons at his disposal, has fought for the countrymen this year, and gave them one dollar per quintal in excess of the prices mooted by the merchants on Water Street.

It will be recognised, however, that there is a limit to any personal endeavour, and unless there are regulations to centralise and control export, to cut out consignment, to bring outright sales, and to thus maintain a firm price abroad, nothing can prevent a slump locally.

Reference has already been made of the effect of the removal of the regulations for Greece.

"Ruff Shod" Rubber Boots

Tripple Thread Tyre Soles

J. J. ROSSITER

apt 28, mvt 3ms

Hawes has entered the Greek market. His cold storage facilities help his consignment system which works injury to Nfld's interests.

Does it require much brains to understand the reason why the regulations were knifed as soon as Mr. Coaker left the country for the markets last year?

The Advocate answers the question. The plot was to kill the regulations in order to bring about the consignment curse, in order to allow a "ring" of merchants to control the foreign markets, in order to help them to put out of business those foreign buyers who would pay cash down for Newfoundland fish, and in order to control the price of fish to the fishermen and filch from them six million dollars on their "catch" this year.

That crime, abetted by political traitors and scoundrels jealous of Coaker's popularity, is now being enacted. The markets are being demoralized by consignment manipulation, and the fishermen, facing a hard winter, with a low catch and with high prices ruling, must pay the penalty for the crimes of their malefactors.

DAILY CATHOLIC PRESS IS URGED

Present Papers Said to be Immoral and Corrupt by Catholic Divine

(Montreal Star)

A denunciation of the non-Catholic press as being both immoral and corrupt, was made by the Rev. George O'Toole, of Cantley, Que., in urging the need for a Catholic daily press at yesterday afternoon's session of the Catholic Truth Society, at Congress Hall.

The use of the expression was objected to by Bishop Couturier, of Alexandria, Ont., chairman of the meeting, who said he thought it was too strong, and brought from Father O'Toole the statement that he had used the words in their theological rather than in their popular sense.

The congress was brought to a close last evening after a session of two days of successful discussion and propagation of Catholic doctrine. His Lordship Bishop Morrison, of Antigonish, N.S., presided, and on the platform were seated Bishop Gauthier, Bishop Mallon, Bishop Couturier and Archbishop McNeil.

In the course of his paper, Father O'Toole declared that the enemies of the Catholic Church had in their hands a mighty instrument in the daily press, which they were using with telling effect against the church. The secular press was the mouthpiece of immorality and corruption whether avowedly anti-Catholic or merely indifferent, he said, and was continually barking the Church in her work. The daily papers were false philosophers and guides of the people, and carried the soul-killing germs of immorality and infidelity to all who read them, sitting, as it were, at the feet of irresponsible scribes and listening to their false expressions and pernicious doctrines. Every issue of a secular paper was a direct attack on Christ, because it definitely excluded Him from its pages, and held the mass of the people to things material instead of spiritual.

DAILY CATHOLIC PAPERS.
In view of this state of affairs, the speaker advocated the immediate establishment of daily Catholic newspapers in different parts of the country.

Criticizing Father O'Toole's characterization of the press as being immoral and corrupt, Bishop Couturier said that he did not condemn the non-

Catholic press because it was non-supply of nuts, he said. Only the brown bears, being fat and lazy, were still wearing tattered furs. The trapper admitted that it was possible that the animals might have been deceived by the early spring, and that we might have a protracted Indian summer instead of jumping headlong into an early winter. "But, like the animals, I am not taking any chances," he added.

The difficulties of establishing a daily press were outlined by Father Casey, editor of the Canadian Freeman, of Kingston, Ont., who said he regarded the idea as being impracticable. At the close of the discussion the members went on record with an agreement to do their best to encourage the foundations of a Catholic daily press.

FOREST INHABITANTS SEE A LONG, HARD WINTER

QUEBEC, Sept. 19.—The forest inhabitants are preparing for a long, hard winter, according to Cyramis Bastien, a veteran trapper, here laying in supplies.

Most of the animals are busy manufacturing their winter coats, and the squirrels are laying in an unusual supply of nuts, he said. Only the brown bears, being fat and lazy, were still wearing tattered furs.

The trapper admitted that it was possible that the animals might have been deceived by the early spring, and that we might have a protracted Indian summer instead of jumping headlong into an early winter. "But, like the animals, I am not taking any chances," he added.

SHARK FISHING FINE INDUSTRY

VALUABLE PRODUCTS GAINED

VICTORIA, B.C.—Sept. 30.—Sharks in the waters along the British Columbia coast are to be turned into leather, liver oil, fertilizer, jewellery, and finally dollars, according to the plans of Sidney Ruck, head of the Consolidated Whaling Company, who has resigned to launch the new industry. Organization of this new company has been completed, and the reducing plant will be erected on the Alberni Canal.

Shark fishing, like whaling, is to be carried on along the west coast of Vancouver Island, where, Mr. Ruck says, examination has shown that the huge sun sharks, some of them weighing two thousand pounds, race up and down in schools of thousands. Recently one of the coasting steamers reported running into a solid mass of these big fellows.

Fishing for the sharks will be carried on after the fashion of whaling with harpoons shot from guns.

Livers of some of the big sun sharks, which are 60 to 65 per cent. oil yield up to twenty gallons of the finest shark oil. It is used for medical purposes and lubrication of delicate mechanisms. Livers of the smaller mud sharks, found in the waters between the island the mainland, yield about ten gallons of oil.

Teeth of sharks are in great demand for the manufacture of necklaces. It is stated, owing to a new fad in neck ornament which recently developed. The fins are almost pure gelatine. They are cured and sold to Orientals, who use them in preparation of table delicacies.

Membranes and intestines are turned into gloves, glue and gut, blood and flesh into chicken food and fertilizers. The head is a solid mass of cartilage glue.

The most valuable part of the fish is the skin, which has the toughness of vulcanized rubber. The outer surface is as rough as sand paper. This is taken off by acid treatment, and the skin is tanned.

We carry a large stock of Kerosene, all sizes. Send us your order. Union Publishing Company, Ltd.

Blue Puttee Re-union

Over sixty members of the Blue Puttees attended the re-union at Donovan's last night. Col. Carty in the chair conducted the concert and other entertaining features in his well known style. The catering under Mrs. Hughes left nothing to be desired. The music was furnished by Major Tait, M.C. The re-union was all that it was expected to be. The boys joined in the and made the night merry with impromptu songs and recitations. When the toast was proposed to the absent comrades lying away over in the lands across the sea, all rejoicings ceased and every man present bowed his head in respect for the boys who "went west." Several messages were received from members who were unable to attend, including one from Sergt. Jack Whelan who was then sailing from Ramea for Lisbon, wishing the boys the best of luck on anniversary night. Many of the members, who last year were unavoidably absent, were able to attend last night. These included some seaguing men now in port. Next year a much better programme has been suggested, and it is possible that the night may be celebrated in the grounds at Pleasantville in similar circumstances to those which existed during the days when the Blue Puttees were a reality in the encampment near Quidi Vidi Lake. All the boys present were pleased with last night's re-union and if a similar programme is arranged next year there is little doubt that every available member will attend. The committee to which the honor of last night's success is due, deserves the praise of all members.

ST. THOMAS'S
NEW PASTOR

Presentation to Rev. E. C. Earp, B.A.

(Hull Daily Mail, Sept. 12th.)

The Rev. E. C. Earp, B.A., preached his farewell sermon on Sunday evening at Holy Trinity Church. Mr. Earp has been appointed to the important church of St. Thomas's, Newfoundland. During the war he was a Chaplain to the Forces, having previously held a vicariate in the colonies. It was recently announced that Mr. Earp had accepted the living of St. Barnabas, York, but a subsequent cable from Newfoundland was so urgent that he was released from the York appointment.

Preaching from the text "Strengthen the things which remain," Rev. 3, 2, Mr. Earp referred to the unchanging character of Holy Trinity Church, which remained. In his fifteen years' ministry there has not been any privilege comparable to his work in connection with that ancient and venerable church. When it was remembered that John Wesley and the eloquent father of Andrew Marvell and the Archbishops of the See of York, from generation to generation, had preached there they might realize the inestimable privilege it was to come home and have the opportunity of being there, if only for a while. Countless souls who had crossed the front had worshipped within those walls through the vicissitudes of the centuries, and amidst the events of the war and catastrophes the old church remained a monument to God in the city of Hull. Holy Trinity was a great cross in the heart of this great commercial city of Hull. He appealed to them to strengthen their affiliation with the old church which many of them loved with a reverence and affection deep down in their hearts.

Following the service a presentation was made to Mr. Earp. This took place in the south aisle of the church and was attended by a large number of the congregation. On behalf of the congregation, Canon Buchanan handed Mr. Earp a cheque to be supplemented by a further amount, towards defraying the heavy expenses of the family going to Newfoundland. In a few farewell remarks, the Vicar said Mr. Earp had been a sound preacher and able precursor, and a loyal colleague. He had also shown himself to be a Christian gentleman. Dr. Pigeon (people's warden) augmented these remarks and Mr. Earp suitably returned thanks.

The Commercial Night School is opening to-night with Technical, Commercial and Stenographic Departments, and specialists in each, as per advertisement in our columns to-day. Great credit is due the Commercial School, for its push and success, as evidenced by the list of pupils placed last year in good positions in the city published in the 'Advocate' a short while ago.

What the school did for these students last year, it can do for others owing to the greater advantages afforded, and better conditions generally, this year. Miss Freeman was specially complimented on her great success in the Stenographic Department. Mr. P. G. Butler, B.C.S., Principal of the School, has resumed work in the Commercial Technical Departments, giving his personal attention to Accounting, English, Salesmanship, Debating, and advanced mechanical work, so that the usual number of about forty accountants can be trained this winter, a valuable service to the cause of business in Newfoundland.

Police Are Active

During the past week the police, and especially the detective force, have paid particular attention to the business section of the community, with the result that practically very little of any importance has occurred. The thieves have now transferred their operations to the higher levels. On Saturday night an attempt was made on a grocery store on Cookstown Road. A pane of glass was removed, but the burglars were unable to get past the iron bars which were securely fastened on the inside. This store has been burglarized on several previous occasions.

On Monday night Mullock street was visited and a lady of this thoroughfare received quite a scare when shortly after midnight she found a man endeavouring to gain admittance through her bedroom window. Her screams for help brought neighbours to her assistance and a search for the marauder was made, but he was lost sight of on Monkstown Road, where he scaled several fences and made good his escape. On the same night an attempt at burglary was made on Military Road. Glass was broken, but the thieves were evidently disturbed in their nefarious work, and did not get away with any goods.
